

Take advantage of yet another Fed rate hike

The announcement this week that the Federal Reserve raised interest rates by .25% could spark another increase in eligible securities for Florida PRIME. Assets in the portfolio can be immediately invested in securities reflecting these higher yields, speeding up the impact of the rate increase on your working capital. As shown above with past rate hikes, these higher yields were quickly reflected in the portfolio.

Take advantage of the rate hike and invest in Florida PRIME while yields are on the rise.

Florida PRIME is the best investment value for Florida local governments, and as recent participant survey results show, continues to be favorable regarding operations and service.
